MESSAGE ARTICLE – FEBRUARY 2018

Rabbi Shae J. Kane D.D.

Our culture is materially opulent and spiritually starved. Throughout American communities, lavish homes and well-furnished schools provide our children and ourselves with abundant physical comforts. We have all the possessions we can imagine. Our richness in things is counter-balanced, however, by our poverty in time. According to a recent study in TIME Magazine, the average American workweek has increased from 41 to 47 hours per week, with many adults working far longer hours. With both members of most couples working, we work hard and long to be able to have “the good things in life” - a home, a car, maybe two, and maybe a computer to go along with our cell phones. But we have so little time to use them much less enjoy them. As a consequence of our shortage of time, we undervalue time and overvalue possessions. Happiness, however, is not to be found through ownership, but only through relationships. Contentment emerges from meaningful living, not from the ever-increasing desire for property.

Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel used to say, "Things are the shore, and the voyage is in time." Learning to bask in time, rather than to squander time trying to keep up with our possessions, is the fundamental task facing most Americans today. In teaching ourselves how to effectively utilize time, to remember the art of resting and of renewal, we can strengthen ourselves to confront our finitude in time and our loneliness as solitary souls.

In this month of February we encounter, in the Book of Exodus, the first version of the Ten Commandments, which mentions that a solution to our thirst for time is Shabbat, the Day of Rest. While the remainder of the Ten Commandments focus on matters of theology or of interpersonal ethics, Shabbat is the only ritual observance, which merits a place in those highly charged words, "Remember the Shabbat day and keep it holy. Six days you shall labor and do all your work, but the seventh day is a Shabbat of the Lord your God. You shall not do any work - you, your son or daughter, your male or female slave, or your cattle, or the stranger who is within your settlements. For in six days, the Lord made heaven and earth and sea, and all that is in them, and God rested on the seventh day; therefore the Lord blessed the Shabbat day and hallowed it." Shabbat is the fundamental building block for all of Judaism and all of Jewish values. It is our portable home in time, a movable tabernacle that travels with the Jewish People through our journeys in history. Once each week, the Jew can put aside chores, obligations and distractions – the activities, which rightly claim our attention during the week -- and can reassert our godlike sovereignty over work. For 24 hours or so each week, Jewish families are guaranteed quality time together, time to focus on their relationships together, on learning about their Jewish heritage, on building a Jewish community enriched by their participation and their worship.

A Judaism, which does not make time for Shabbat, is a mere religion. However, a Judaism centered around Shabbat, consecrated for quiet, meditation, celebration, study and play is one, which can outlast the ages. Such a Judaism can infuse our lives and our communities with a sense of balance and perspective, sanctity and wisdom which our age -- so rushed and frantic -- sorely lacks. Every Jew is invited to a weekly cruise. All embark on a Friday night. Once on ship, there is no need to work -- since all the preparations are already complete. Instead, the voyagers can finally focus on refreshing their tired spirits, their strained hearts and their distracted minds.

A lavish dinner -- complete with beautiful candlelight, sparkling wine and a bread so rich it tastes like cake. Followed by a service, which involves thanking the Captain and crew, through poetry, song and discussion, for preparing such a restful and pleasant voyage. Some people retire early for private time and for restful slumber. The next morning, the voyagers gather for a light breakfast, and then spend the morning together, meditating, reading and thinking about their goals in life, where they've come so far, what their history has taught them, and what kind of people they want to be. At noon, another festive repast, no less wonderful than last night's dinner, is served. In the afternoon, some walk the deck, some play ball, some read, while others sleep. And at the end of the day, as the cruise returns to shore, all are renewed and energized, and the participants are able to face the new week with anticipation and zeal. Such a cruise is available to you each week, and has been departing every Friday night for more than 3,000 years. The good ship Shabbat is as seaworthy as ever; all it needs is passengers -- no advance reservations required. All aboard!

President's Message February 2018

Shalom everyone!

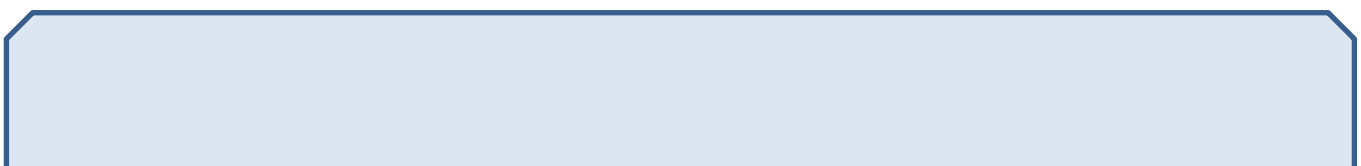

Although the temperatures have been unappealing and frigid, it truly has been warm and inviting at each of Madison's events and weekly services. If you have been staying at home, consider attending our activities. You will be lifted spiritually and make some nice friends.

Please check flyers mailed to your home, the Message, emails, our posters and listen to the phone tree. Our updated Friday services have been a joy to all who attend. These services are brief, and the dress is casual. There is a pleasant Oneg that follows. On Shabbat, the service is longer and the format more traditional, but there is always spiritual renewal and a luncheon kiddush afterwards.

Social events are enjoyable. Most relate to holidays or the season. Madison Jewish Center is great for people of all ages and interests. Invite some friends and family to join you at MJC. We are a friendly congregation and look forward to your participation.

Looking forward to personally greeting you at MJC soon!

Love, Barbara

Shalom Parents,

This month is Purim. The M'gillah reading will take place on Wednesday evening,

February 28th. There will be pizza, ice cream, and a carnival to follow. We look forward to seeing you all there.

We will have already started our annual Passover Miss Chocolate candy sale. The sale will end on Wednesday February 14th. This year we are pleased to offer Barton's Kosher for Passover candy and a second (non-Passover) catalog featuring items for your kitchen and home. All are perfect for your own holiday table or as gifts. If you are interested in purchasing, please fill out the order form on the next page, the one sent home with your child, or the one you should have received by regular mail. You can either bring it to the office, send it to Hebrew school with your child, or mail it back with the correct payment. Please make your check is payable to our organization. Thank you for your support!

MJC SOCIAL CLUB HAPPENINGS ----- FEBRUARY 2018

I hope everyone has been able to deal with the snow and stay warm this past January.

This year the Super Bowl party is on Sunday, February 4th. There will be mah jongg tables set up for those that are not that interested in watching the game. It is being held at AOH together with the Knights of Pythias. Kosher food will be available. Boxes are being sold.

Wednesday evening, February 28th, is our annual Purim celebration in conjunction with Sisterhood and PA. Come and listen to the M'gillah reading, wear a costume, and join in the fun.

Our annual trip to Atlantic City is on Sunday, April 22nd. We will have breakfast in the shul and play Bingo on the bus. Then enjoy spending the day gambling, walking on the boardwalk, and/or shopping.

The annual Social Club Shabbat is scheduled for Friday evening, May 11th. We will be enjoying a traditional dinner provided by our caterer before the service.

We are working on a trip for a Sunday in June to the Spanish/Portuguese Synagogue. Our end of year dinner will also be held in June. Watch for further information.

Every member of MJC is also a member of the Social Club. Please take advantage of the many opportunities to spend time with friends. Let's keep MJC as the center of Egalitarian Conservative Judaism in this part of Brooklyn.

Check our website (madisonjc.org), watch for flyers, and check the Message for further information. Reservations for all activities can be made through our email address (info@madisonjc.org).

THE LATEST FROM SISTERHOOD FEBRUARY 2018

It has been a very cold and blustery winter outdoors, however, at Madison warmth and friendship permeates the air. Last month we had several functions including the movie The Zookeeper's Wife, Maj and Mingle, and the first Fashion Show meeting! Special thanks to Rachel for organizing movie night and to Barbara for donating the refreshments, Teresa for organizing Maj and Mingle along with Ellen assisting and to Barbara and Bonnie for arranging the first Fashion show meeting. Every activity and event that Sisterhood undertakes has been successful because of a combination of motivation, dedication and effort made by our members that is very much appreciated!

Health night will be held on Monday night February 26th. The topic will be Breast Cancer Awareness. Our member Meryl Fox will educate us about a very important organization that she volunteers for called SHARE, which is a national organization offering free support and educational programs for cancer patients, survivors and caregivers. Cost is only $5 pp. If interested, please contact Meryl at 718-377-8251 or email misor1@aol.com. Refreshments, as always, will be provided. Also, this month the annual Purim celebration will be held on Wednesday evening, February 28th, in conjunction with Social Club and P.A.

A Passover program led by Rabbi and Arlene Kane will follow the next board meeting on Monday, March 19th. Flyers will be sent out with further details. Also note that the Torah Fund Brunch will be held on Sunday, April 15th, with distinguished guest speaker Joe Dorinson discussing Jews involved in sports. Furthermore, the annual Fashion Show will be held on Thursday, May 17th, so SAVE THE DATE!

We would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Happy Purim. Hag Sameach!
