MESSAGE ARTICLE – JULY-AUGUST 2020
Rabbi Shae J. Kane D.D.

As food for thought, I share with you a sermon written by my colleague Rabbi Elliot Dorf. He is the current Chair of the Conservative Movement’s Committee on Jewish Law and Standards. The sermon is entitled “Taking Care of Yourself in the New Year”. Although Rabbi Dorf wrote this about 6 months ago, I believe it still rings true for us at this time of pandemic and social unrest.

“Jews learn early in life that their Jewish heritage includes a strong focus on helping others. The Torah has multiple laws that require us to take care of the poor (e.g., Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 15:7-15), and the Rabbis expanded on that to require that every Jewish community establish a soup kitchen to feed the poor and a charity fund to supply them with clothing and shelter (Tosefta, Pe’ah 4;9). Deuteronomy, the fifth book of the Torah, depicts God as caring for the widow, orphan, and stranger (10:18), and it bids us in several places to do so likewise (14:29; 16:11, 14; 24:19-21; 26:12-13; 27:19). The Prophets therefore regularly chastise the Jewish community of their time for failing to provide for the poor, the orphan, and the widow (e.g., Isaiah 1:17, 23; 3:14-15; Jeremiah 7:6; 22:3; Zekhariah 7:10; etc.)

The Rabbis (Tosefta, Gittin 3:18; B. Gittin 61a) insisted that we help the non-Jewish poor and sick as well as Jews; this is truly remarkable because the non-Jews the Rabbis were talking about were the Romans of that time, who were definitely not worrying about Jews who were poor or ill. The Rabbinic term for these acts of helping others is g’millut hasadim, acts of kindness, and a deservedly famous Mishnah (Avot 1:2) that many of us sing says that Torah (learning it and fulfilling its precepts), worship, and acts of civic virtue are the three pillars on which the world stands. The contemporary term that Jews often use for the same kinds of activity is tikkun olam, repairing the world, and although that is not the entirety of Judaism, it is a core value and focus of our tradition. Sometimes the way that I describe this aspect of the Jewish tradition is to say that “Judaism spells responsibility with a capital R.”

Aside from parties on New Year's Eve and parades and football games on the day itself, the one thing that characterizes the marking of the New Year in the American tradition is New Year's resolutions. The Jewish New Year celebration of Rosh haSHannah calls our attention to our relationships to other people and to God and bids us to evaluate how we have fared in those relationships, how we can make up for what we have done wrong, and how we can do better in the year to come. New Year's resolutions in the American setting, in contrast, focus on what we can and want to do for ourselves. This year I will lose weight, or I will spend more time with my family, or at least on Shabbat I will liberate myself from my electronics. Some even tie a string around their finger to remind them of their resolutions.

This does not violate the substance or spirit of Judaism in the least bit. In fact, the Talmud (B. Bava M'tzi'a 62a) asserts that in dire circumstances, one must save oneself first and only then seek to save others. In monetary matters as well, the Talmud (Bava M'tzi'a 71a; B. N'darim 80b) describes concentric circles: first one must support oneself, then one's immediate family, then one's extended family, then one's local Jewish community, then the larger Jewish community, and then the non-Jewish community.

Of course, as Jews we must also care for others, and Jews of all forms of affiliation are right in seeing that as a core Jewish value. You cannot help others, though, unless you yourself are in a position and condition to do so (a particularly important lesson for caregivers of sick or disabled people to learn). So in looking after our own welfare as we make New Year's resolutions we are carrying out an important Jewish value. Now may we only fulfill our resolutions!"

President's Message

Baruch HaTov v'HaMetiv.

Traditionally, that's how we respond to good news. You might be thinking, "What good news is there?" There's plenty of good news. We just have to focus our thinking a bit.

As your president this past year, I was faced with the unthinkable; we had to close the doors to our sanctuary. As I left that day, and the door was closed and locked for an undetermined length of time, my heart sank. What to do? How to keep everyone together and supported? How would we possibly continue to hold services? What about all our planned events? The whole situation was overwhelming. I couldn't envision a future without MJC in it.

And then suddenly, there was good news. We were able to set up a virtual remote receptionist to forward all the calls from MJC to our cell phones and a voice mailbox. We turned to Zoom to support us as we resumed our Shabbat and Holiday services and Monday & Thursday Minyanim. Zoom became our "go to" for meetings and events and we successfully executed the "heavy lifting" to master what, for most of us, was new technology. We coordinated with other congregations and enjoyed a wonderful concert last month. This month, Sisterhood held a fantastic virtual end of year dinner. So, let's take a moment to reflect on our success-and then move ahead to the next challenge: reopening Madison Jewish Center.

While it's true that we can't predict when I'll greet you at the door in person, we need to plan for the moment that we can say, "Beruchim Ha'Baim" - "welcome to our congregation". We know that things will be "different" but that could also mean "better!" Committees are forming now as the MJC 2020 Re-opening Task Force begins their work. Each one of us has a role to play in the design and implementation for the successful re-opening and continuous operation of MJC. The devil is in the details and we want to make sure that nothing is overlooked. We need you! When you receive an email from me with a committee assignment, I hope you'll accept. It's our responsibility to do everything we can to make MJC a vital part of the next generation.

The Latest from Sisterhood July-August 2020

The Sisterhood first ever End of the Year Virtual Meeting was held on Monday, June 22nd. Thank you to Marlene Podell and Teresa Gottesmann for organizing the event, and to everyone who participated in this virtual fundraiser. It was a fun and informative meeting. We honored three deserving women, and we appreciate what they have done for Sisterhood and MJC. Look for the honorees names in the September Message.

We also offer our thanks to Ilene Karpas for teaching the weekly Hebrew reading class on Zoom during the months of May and June. The class was very helpful, and Ilene put in a great deal of time instructing her students. Everyone attending the class benefited from the sessions and enjoyed the weekly comradery.

Have you been “cooking in seclusion?” That is the name of the digital cookbook Sisterhood is putting together for sale online. Sisterhood members are requested to submit two of your favorite recipes for inclusion. Photos are welcome as well. E-mail Judy Posniack or Sharon Goldberger by Friday, July 3rd. The other committee members are Fran Leibowitz and Ilene Shapiro. Thank you to all for undertaking this project.

We have been meeting to discuss what the Fall will look like for Sisterhood, and while no one can predict the future, we are planning events that can be done either in person or virtually. Sisterhood’s Opening Brunch is such an event, and it is scheduled for Sunday, September 13th from 10AM to 12PM. The guest speaker will be expert organizer Amy Schoenfeld.

And finally, if you are interested in playing Mah Jongg online, contact Eva Hirsch.

Have a safe and peaceful summer. Hopefully when we all meet again, it will be after successful visits to our hairdressers.

Mady Kiner for Sisterhood

MJC SOCIAL CLUB HAPPENINGS

July-August 2020

I hope that everyone is staying well and trying to enjoy the good spring weather. We have been keeping in touch even though we cannot physically be with each other. It is wonderful to see so many members at our services on zoom. Rabbi Kane, Cantor Rimer, and Ellen Green have been working very hard to make these services successful. Joel Freilich is doing a great job reading the Torah. Thank you all.

The Social Club has been meeting monthly and discussing different possibilities for future events. We hope to have a Bingo night on Saturday evening, October 24th, either on zoom or hopefully in the shul. Vodka and Latka in conjunction with Sisterhood is scheduled for Saturday, December 5th. Tentatively there will either be crafts or ping pong on January 9, 2021. The educational trip to the Greek Synagogue will be rescheduled. The Social Club Shabbat will be held on a Friday night in May.

Please check your email for invitations or the Message for further information.

My thoughts and prayers are for everyone to be healthy and safe. These trying times are bringing us closer and making us stronger. I am looking forward to the time when we can be together again.

Ilene Karpas

Shalom Parents and Hebrew school students,

Hope you are all doing well and keeping busy. Our Hebrew School has ended for this year but the teachers did a great job on Zoom, and in the classrooms before we could no longer be in the classroom. This was an unusual year but despite all of the challenges we had a pretty productive school year.

We are looking forward to seeing all of you in the fall!

We hope you all have a happy and healthy summer!

Melanie Green for the Parents' Association

Israel Update #4 Repeated

In consultation with Quentin travel I have officially postponed the October trip to Israel. We hope that there will be a vaccine/cure in the not too distant future. We can then see a safer, healthy world in which our normal lives and travel will begin again. Until then stay safe and healthy .
